Dear US BANKRUPTCY COURT PHILADELPHIA,

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to seek clarification on a matter related to the reporting of bankruptcy information to credit bureaus.

I recently discovered that my bankruptcy information is being reported by a credit bureau. In light of this, I am reaching out to understand the policies and practices of the bankruptcy court concerning the reporting of such information to credit reporting agencies.

Specifically, I kindly request answers to the following:

1. Does the US BANKRUPTCY COURT PHILADELPHIA have a standard practice of reporting bankruptcy information to credit reporting agencies?
2. If so, could you please provide details on the information that is typically reported?
